FINA “Hero of the Day”: Kylie Masse

2017.07.25. 21:04 CET

The first hero of Tuesday was the new world record holder of the woman’s 100m backstroke competition.

The Canadian swimming star was super happy about her gold medal and of course, about the world record, it means a lot to her. Actually, it was one of her main goals to be the best in the world and break the previous record. She focused on her swimming during the competition and tried to do her best.

Kylie Masse also mentioned to the journalists that she was excited in general, but after the gold medal and the record, she could not find the words during the first interview. She also told that it is a big honour for her to represent Canada at the World Championships. She is always trying to be better and better and participate at a lot of competition because that is the way how she could be more experienced.
